Blasts' shock waves felt here

From STAFF REPORTS
"Everyone's wandering around like they're comatose," said one office worker Tuesday morning.
And that wasn't in lower Manhattan, but on Main Street in Bethel, Maine, hundreds of miles from the terrorists' attacks that shook the nation Tuesday.
Here, as across the rest of the country, news of the attacks at the World Trade Center and Pentagon was greeted first with incredulity, then with stunned horror.
"I feel like I did when the Challenger went up — that someone kicked me in the stomach," said Jan Todd of Bethel.
Plumber Sam Pierce said he was working at a woman's house, "and she just started screaming."
For some, a sickening fear followed, and they began to desperately grope for information about loved ones who might have been in the area of the blast or flying on one of the four hijacked flights.
Among those who sought such crucial information were Telstar art teacher Tim Kavanagh and his wife, Leslie.
"When news of the attack first began to filter into classrooms I was busily involved in a high school studio arts class and not really aware of what was happening," said Tim Kavanagh. "I overheard a student mention that there had been an explosion at the Trade Towers and, soon after, that plane flights originating from Boston were most likely involved."
"My son, Cailin, was scheduled to fly out of Boston for Seattle, but I

Gould Academy's new 'head of school' looks ahead

By REBECCA ZICARELLI
The doors of Gould Academy opened for the 2002 school year Monday morning, with a new leader to guide the school. Dan Kunkle and his wife, Kathy, welcomed students back over the weekend. With the resumption of classes Monday morning, their real work has begun.
The Kunkles came here from Midland School in Santa Ynez, Calif. Kunkle served Midland as headmaster for 10 years. After eight years there, they began to consider seeking challenges and opportunities elsewhere.
"We didn't want to take the risk of growing stale and settled on one place," Kathy said.

They began to look for another private school in northern New England.
"Initially, we were drawn by the setting," Kunkle said. "We knew very little about the school, but knew the area, the White Mountains and the Rangeleys. The people and the quality of community in the school, and we've since discovered in the town, drew us here."

"There is a real sense of caring and concern of other people," Kathy added.
The Kunkles have immediate challenges to tackle. They will oversee the construction of the new science building, and an upcoming renovation of Hanscom Hall. They will keep working on the capital campaign, which is scheduled to be completed in December of 2002. They will continue the school's attempts to broaden its appeal, enriching the applicant pool.

"In a sense," Kunkle said, "our work is already laid out in terms of those things."
This will allow time to get to know the school and community better. While the students study Algebra and Shakespeare, the

Oxford County pine bark quarantined following beetle find

Ban includes export of logs that have not been debarked

By ALISON ALOISIO

Because of a single pine shoot beetle found in the northern reaches of Oxford County last year, a USDA agency has imposed an interim quarantine on pine bark.
As a result, during certain times of the year, the wood industry may not ship the bark, often sold as mulch, out of the county. The same is true for logs with bark still on them.
The beetle, which feeds on pine shoots and can reduce a tree's growth, was found last year in a trap in Adamstown, according to Don Ouellette, a forest entomologist with the Maine Forest Service.

The beetle prefers hard pines, such as red or Scotch. It inhabits white pine less frequently.

Spring is the time of year when the beetle is most easily spread. It colonizes the bark at the base of the trees, and can be transported in the bark after the tree is cut. The quarantine prevents moving bark, or logs with bark on them, out of the county during that time.

If the quarantine in Oxford County remains in effect, it will mean headaches for at least some sectors of the wood industry. The problem, said Neil Postlewaite of Hancock Lumber, is that bark removed from incoming logs would pile up at his company's Bethel mill.

"We would run out of space in a couple of weeks," he said. Hancock uses white pine, less preferred by the beetles, in all its lumber, he said.

Sewer and road work in Paradise Road area put off until next year

By MICHAEL DANIELS

Faced with higher-than-expected costs, a quickly disappearing construction season, and unresolved engineering and paperwork details, Bethel selectmen have decided, unanimously, to delay until next year the planned upgrade of sewer mains in Paradise and Evergreen roads and Eden Lane.

Town Manager Scott Cole conceded the decision to put off the construction would condemn residents along the old line to another season of backups, especially along Evergreen Road, which is problematic to begin with, he said.

The ancient, six-inch clay line is deteriorating, according to treatment plant operator Rob Gunderson. "Sometimes it just grabs rags as they go by and clogs up," Gunderson said.

A number of attempts have been made to clear the line with a jet cleaner, he said, but that can sometimes make the problem worse. "It just loosens the dirt that's holding the clay in place," he said.

And it's not only toilet problems that are plaguing residents. Paradise Road is also in bad shape. "The road's got to be repaved. It's a terrible road," Cole said.

Town officials hoped to be able this year to replace the six-inch main with new eight-inch main, repave the roads in question, and perhaps even extend the sewer line another 1500 feet (it currently ends

Rec Board unanimously backs skateboard park

By ALISON ALOISIO

The Bethel Recreation Committee last week voted unanimously to recommend a skateboard park be built in the Pathway.

The recommendation came out of a meeting that saw about a dozen teenagers turn out to speak in favor of the park. The teens also heard a letter read from Town Manager Scott Cole saying he regretted remarks he made earlier in the week about skateboarders.

The park has been in the works as part of the Pathway project, with the elements expected to be donated by Sunday River Ski Resort. But last week Cole questioned whether the park should be built, citing concern over the potential behavior of "the skateboarding crowd." He also said there appeared to be more interest in having a basketball court instead.

Cole expressed his reservations to selectmen, who then turned the issue back to the committee.

Scott Parker, committee chairman, began the meeting by expressing support for the park and concern about Cole's remarks. "It got a lot of people's blood boiling, mine one of them," he said.

Parker read a letter to the committee from Cole. "I made comments at the Sept. 4 (selectmen's) meeting which connected recent vandalism to skateboard See SKATEBOARD PARK, page 5

POND PROBLEMS OVERBLOWN

To the Editor:

I would like to make a rebuttal to last week's letter titled, "We are taxpayers too."

About the only statement in the entire letter that I agree with just happens to be the only part that makes any sense. I do, as well, feel badly that there has to be controversy over something potentially good for the community, such as the proposed North Road swimming hole. As a concerned taxpayer for this town, and I am very proud to be a member of this community, I am also astonished at how many people like to either argue and disagree publicly about so many matters that make this community a better place. I have held my tongue for some time, but then again I don't usually like to blow smoke and cause chaos just because I seem to like the sound of my own voice.

Mr. Laux mentions the fact that the North Road is not safe for pedestrian traffic. My first question would be: Does no one that resides on the North Road ever go out? My second is: If anyone resides there with children are they housebound until they are old enough to move away? On every road I have ever traveled there are stories of too-close-for-comfort calls.

My advice to Mr. Laux on this matter would be to either complain until he gets speed bumps, shoulders put in, or maybe conger up some willing taxpayers to put in some good old-fashion sidewalks. He suggests maybe a swimming pool closer to Bethel Station. Now I am not one to argue safety, but isn't Parkway one of the busiest roads in this town?

Also, Mr. Laux's "leading the people to believe" statement to the fact that we the taxpayers just spent $400,000-plus on a walkway is also false. Most of the money came from a grant and the town put little money into making that happen. I myself have been able to enjoy the walkway and think that it was a splendid idea. As for the cost of the swimming hole, I also believe that Mr. Laux is incorrect. But anything the town would like to build or put into place would cost money, don't you agree?

Mr. Laux's last grasp at straws was a question on repeated concerns over total long-term cost. I truly believe that they haven't been able to get that far in advance. I do think that if the process takes its time and is well planned and thought out that we will have minimal problems. I can assure him that no matter what there will be some that do arise. But let's cross that bridge when we get there. There are always bumps in the road that with time are smoothed out (no pun intended).

Mr. Laux asked the question, "Will the construction affect my pond and the construction that I have done around it?" My answer to him is I am a hardworking parent with two small children. We do very well for ourselves, but I can assure you that we cannot afford to build our own pond. There is not one place for my husband or myself to go and enjoy the warm weather either sitting by the water and having a picnic or just spending some fun family time that doesn't cost an arm and a leg. Mr. Laux mentions in the second paragraph that he supports many opportunities for the youth; I will assume he is willing to let us enjoy his pond.

If my memory serves me correctly, I do not remember any of Mr. Laux's letters to the editor complaining about the Songo Beach. In my opinion Route 5 is a lot more dangerous than the North Road. And I can assure him that I would have a hard time letting my children venture on that route — with bikes or holding my hand. Also, just to purchase that beach was going to cost at least $350,000 and that is without renovations and long-term upkeep.

In closing, it sounds like Mr. Laux may have a problem with something potentially good for this community across the road from him. That I can't understand, but I am sure more people can relate to that than all the other nipping that he is doing. Get to the point of the problem and explain from there. Also, tell the facts and not just "in-town rumors." I hope Mr. Laux can get some of his questions answered on Sept. 12, but if not, he can then walk away with the facts and possibly relay them a little better.

SUPPORTS SWIMMING POOL

To the Editor:

In response to Bob Laux's letter to the editor in last week's Citizen, I feel obliged to state my opinion on the North Road swimming hole issue. I must agree with Mr. Laux that "it is too bad there has to be controversy over something potentially good for a community." I also agree with the fact that everyone is entitled to their views on this matter, and that most of the concerns I've heard are reasonable concerns. However, I do not agree with the public displays of poor attitude that have presented themselves over this issue.

Who exactly was this "private benefactor" mentioned in Mr. Laux's letter to the editor? Supposedly, he/she offered to buy the land from the Angevines to build a swimming hole, prior to the land being donated. Did this "private benefactor" truly mention to the landowner that he/she wished to donate the swimming hole to the town? Or, did this "private benefactor" have ulterior financial motives to developing this land, perhaps leading to the reason why it was not sold? Of course, this is all just speculation. Whatever the case may be I hope Mr. or Miss "Private Benefactor" would please step forward now, and show some support for this project he/she originally had interest in.

With a background in recreation, I know the importance of having no-cost recreation opportunities available within a community. I feel very strongly that the swimming hole is a feasible project this community could greatly benefit from.

Looking at the big picture, there seems to be more pros than there are cons. I honestly don't understand why proposing the swimming hole be established just off Route 2 at the BIG Adventure facility makes that area any safer than the North Road parcel. As far as the financials go, I think expenses for this project should be quoted from a professional in that area of expertise, so town members can have more than just a "rumored" understanding of cost.

No matter what the outcome, I would like to most importantly thank my grandparents, the Angevines, for their generous land donation. I would also like to thank the Chadbournes for their proposal on financial backing of the project and the many local supporters. Let's not forget, these families are long-time "natives" of this area who had intentions of giving something back to this beautiful community. A community they've called home for many years.

WANTS APOLOGY AND INPUT

To the Editor:

I would like to comment on a couple of issues. First of all concerning the skateboard park. It seems to me that both the skateboard park and the basketball court would be nice to have for our young folks. The kids and younger folks are an important part of our community, too.

I find this kind of stereotyping extremely offensive and outrageous. As a member of the adult community I would hate to be judged by the actions of some of the other adults. I know several of the young ones — my son included — who were excited and anxiously waiting for the elements to be set up. An apology seems to be in order.

Next I would like to see if I can get some input from the community concerning the natural gas pipeline. On two occasions I have asked our selectmen to initiate a community meeting. Per US-DOT regulations there is supposed to be continuous public education in areas with pipelines. These meetings are supposed to give the public the opportunity to ask questions and also to learn about the Emergency Plan, Fire Department training, Dig Safe rules and regulations and how it all applies to living with a pipeline. Further, I have heard that there are some people who have ongoing problems dealing with PNGTS. Am sure these folks would welcome the chance to have them here, too.

Please, let me hear from you. There are many who feel that this pipeline is of no concern and poses no threat. I would suggest they check out the Web site of the Office of Pipeline Safety.

ASTONISHED BY COMMENT

To the Editor:

As a resident of Bethel for nearly the past 15 years, I felt obligated to write in on the behalf of the many newly profiled visitors/residents of Bethel. I was astonished by Town Manager Scott Cole's words concerning our skateboarders/rollerbladers.

I was under the impression that town officials were supposed to keep an open mind, but I was wrong, as Cole stereotyped all of the boarders and bladers as people who should be sent to jail for vandalism. I have many friends and acquaintances (including my 11-year-old brother and many of his friends) who are very interested in boarding, and yet, I've never met any that have vandalized the area.

I am now more than ever disappointed in the behavior of Bethel's "leaders." If there is any reason that Bethel should not open a skate park, vandalism is not one of them. By making such comments about those interested in above-stated sports, we are only encouraging the young residents of Bethel to either rebel or lose faith in town government.

I feel that Cole owes an apology to all those who may have been offended by his recent comments, of whom I am one. I would hope that such ignorant comments would not become common in the town that many of us call home.

PULL THE CHAIN ON THE BRYANT POND SEWER IDEA

To the Editor:

For the last few months I have been listening and reading very carefully the proposal for a major sewer for the town of Bryant Pond. Living on the south end of town, I didn't realize we had a sewer problem, if at all we do. I, like many others I'm sure, would like to know is there a big business or large development moving in, or is it one, six, or 60 residents that don't have septic systems that is creating what could be a very costly project to the taxpayers.

After reading the last proposal, stating we need to hire a professional to do the study, tells me we need some serious answers from the town manager and selectmen.

If we, the residents, favor hiring a professional, one can rest assured the dollars will not stop rolling. These professionals are just what they are, professionals, and they are not coming in and do a study for a minimum wage. We can be sure that they will tell us what grants to apply for, and we probably could get them, because we are talking, I'll bet, up to a million-dollar project. I'm sure some of the residents are thinking "no way," but look how nice Bethel's system looks, and Bethel has a lot more businesses and development than Bryant Pond. These grants we apply for aren't going to cover the maintenance, paid personnel, and upgrade for the life of the system. These grants are just to help build it.

This is one man's opinion (mine), but I think this whole idea ought to be ripped up, soaked up, and I'll even flush it down my own drain, because I have one, and it's working. It's time to say "no."

REMEMBERING ED VACHON

To the Editor:

My first memory of Ed Vachon, who died last week, was probably the time he came to our house in East Bethel in 1956 to pick up what was formerly Great Uncle Lawrence Kimball's chain saw. His widow, our beloved Aunt Bea, wanted Ed to have it and it was placed in my father's care to give him. Uncle Lawrence was a French professor at Bates prior to his untimely death at the age of 55, who Ed must have gotten to know at Middlebury in the 1930s, when Uncle taught in the language school during the summer. He spent part of his summers in Middle Intervale on the family farm, where he also worked in his woods. In any case, Ed appeared to this twelve-year-old as a very friendly soul as he chatted with my father before taking the saw with him.

I don't have any other memories of Ed until I went to Gould a few years later. There he was still the friendly man I remembered and continued to be through my four years of high school. It was a difficult period of my life during those years, being a shy and diffident adolescent, but Ed was always a bright spot for me during that time.

During my college years, I became president of the Student Education Association. It was in that capacity that I invited Ed to speak to our group following his time abroad studying education. I recall him being very gracious and complimentary about my progress as a college student.

My next encounter with Ed was in 1970 when I bought my first new car and he helped me obtain the loan from the then Bethel Savings Bank. This was just prior to my departure for Canada to complete research on my doctoral dissertation. We had a good chat at that time and he appeared very interested in my plans to complete my graduate education.

When I came to the Bethel Historical Society in 1974, Ed had already been a major player in the Dr. Moses Mason House restoration project. He was very helpful and I will be forever grateful for his early encouragement. Ed continued to be a very important proponent of the society for the rest of his life, serving on the Investment Committee until his death. He was a generous donor of historical materials and with his wife, Sudie, a strong supporter of the current capital campaign. During the years Sudie headed the Garden and Ground Committee, Ed was often drafted by his wife to help, which he did very cheerfully.

As a historian, I will miss Ed's outstanding memory of the local past. He was particularly invaluable with his memories of William Bingham II. As I began my research on this remarkable man several years ago, I was struck by Ed's ability to recall significant details of his relationship with the town and Gould Academy.

It is sad to know that I will not see this man again, but I will long appreciate his friendly interest in history and in the Historical Society.

Bark beetle

problem with the lumber milled from the logs. It can be transported as usual.

A quarantine has been in effect for two years in Coos County, N.H. and Orleans and Essex counties in Vermont, where the beetle is found. During part of last year, Hancock stopped buying logs from Coos County.

Bob Chadbourne of Chadbourne Tree Farms said bark could be an issue for his company as well. "We ship it out of the county," he said.

Public comment sought

What's the solution? First, the Animal Plant Health Inspection Service, the USDA agency that imposed the quarantine, is accepting public comment on the quarantine until Sept. 17. The Maine Forest Service is recommending the area of quarantine be restricted to the portion of Oxford County north of the Appalachian Trail.

That, said Postlewaite, would largely take care of the problem, because the northern region is out of the pine zone. Chadbourne also said he supports moving the line as far north as possible.

If the whole county remains under quarantine, Postlewaite said, another option would be to establish a protocol under which the bark could be transported to a biomass facility for burning. The extra steps involved would mean more cost to the companies involved, he said.

"No one is going to come out of this making more money," said Postlewaite.

'We don't feel this is a primary threat to any resource at this point.'

DON OUELLETTE
MFS entomologist

He also said Hancock is in the process of rebuilding its boiler at the Bethel mill, and it has the potential to use the bark.

The Maine Forest Service is also asking APHIS to review risk assessment studies on the beetle. "We don't feel this is a primary threat to any resource at this point," said Ouellette.

In issuing an alert on the beetle in late August, MFS said, "The proposed regulations will have an immediate impact on some wood-lot owners, forest land managers, Christmas tree growers, saw mills, pulp and paper mills, bio-energy plants, bark processing yards, log yards, truckers and other concerns that receive or ship pine products with bark in the state of Maine. We urge all impacted individuals/companies to submit their concerns/comments to the USDA APHIS PPQ as provided during this open comment period.

Several loggers contacted by The Citizen knew little about the quarantine, saying they thought they would have been contacted from within the industry if the situation was serious.

Brian Gross of Hanover, who heard about the quarantine on TV news, said has been cutting hardwood all summer and expects to into the fall. He expected little effect on his business.

The Maine Department of Agriculture is drafting the state's version of the quarantine and will conduct hearings at a later date.

Both Hancock and Chadbourne have written letters on the issue. The current interim quarantine is described as "relaxed" at the present time, because it is a low-risk time of year for transporting the beetles.

Anyone wishing to comment on the issue is asked to send four written copies to: Docket No. 01048-1, Regulatory Analysis and Development, PPD, APHIS, Suite 3C03, 4700 River Road, Unit 118, Riverdale, MD 20737 1238. For more information call Ouellette at 287-2431 or Dave Struble at 287-4981.

Blood donors, be patient

BETHEL—Anyone in the Bethel area interested in donating blood is being asked to wait for an announcement from the Red Cross regarding a date. Sharon Lyon of Bethel has been taking calls—so far from about 50 people—wanting to donate blood in the aftermath of Tuesday's attack. "It's overwhelming," she said of the local response. Currently, she said, the Red Cross does not have enough staff to plan an area drive. The next scheduled drive is in Rumford on Sept. 24, but that date is already filled up, she said. However, blood will be needed "for weeks to come," Lyon said, and information about future drives will be forthcoming.

Sugarbush sale agreement

NEWRY—The American Skiing Co. announced Monday it has entered into an agreement to sell its Sugarbush Resort in Warren, Vt. to Summit Ventures NE, Inc., a company formed by a group of local investors. Mark Miller, ASC's chief financial officer, said although a sale of Sugarbush was not part of the company's original strategic plan to delever the company and improve its bottom line, the sale was consistent with ASC's policy of examining unsolicited offers to determine whether they were in the best interest of the company. Net proceeds of the sale will be used to reduce ASC's debt. The transaction is subject to financing and standard closing conditions, and is expected to close by the start of the ski season. Terms of the sale are confidential. "Our team is made up of long-time Mad River Valley residents and experienced ski industry professionals," said Thomas McHugh, CEO of Summit Ventures. "We know these mountains and what makes them special, and we're committed to preserving/enhancing the unique character of Sugarbush."

Newry asked for $18,000 abatement

NEWRY—Newry will apparently owe Fleet Bank an $18,392 property-tax abatement as a result of confusion over who was responsible for paying personal property taxes for Sunday River Ski Resort. Both the resort and the bank paid taxes in 2000 on groomers and computer equipment. The bank was considered the owner of record, according to Donna Moore Hays of Maine Equalization Consultants, the town's assessing agents. Sunday River has paid on the property in previous years, but in 2000 Bank of Boston/Fleet, which were in the midst of a merger, declared the property and also paid the taxes on it. In addition, the bank used the wrong cost basis for payment by also including leased computer equipment located at other ASC resorts, according to Sunday River accounting manager Bill Carroll. Newry has enough money in the general fund to pay the abatement, said Sylvia Gray, administrative assistant. First Selectman Steve Wight said, "We have the money. It's not a financial crisis. But mostly, we don't want it to happen again." The selectmen plan to write to the state taxation bureau about the problem, and ask that an extra $1.6 million in valuation assigned by the state to the town as a result of the situation be removed.

Bethel logger injured

PERU—Scott Annis, 49, of Bethel was one of two loggers injured last week when they were struck by a falling log. Annis and Clayton Pelletier, 38, of Peru were standing beside a tree about 15 feet away from a working skidder. The operator was pulling three 600-to-700-pound logs when one of them caught on something, popped up, swung around and fell between two trees. It pinned Pelletier to the ground, and Annis suffered a head injury when his head struck a nearby tree. Pelletier reportedly shoved Annis out of the way before he was hit by the log. Annis was treated and released from Rumford Hospital. Pelletier was taken to Central Maine Medical Center in Lewiston with a broken pelvis and two fractured ribs.

Dirt bike accident victim dies

LEWISTON—A West Paris teenager died Saturday from injuries he suffered when his dirt bike collided with an oil truck earlier in the week. Scott Hill, 15, died at Central Maine Medical Center. He had been in critical condition in the intensive care unit since the accident. He was riding his dirt bike Wednesday at the intersection of Tuelltown and Benson Hill roads when he collided with the front bumper of the oil delivery truck. He suffered head and leg injuries, police said.

The purpose is to learn more about local culture and eventually develop a cultural data base of resources.

All offices of the combined bank will operate under the Norway Savings Bank name. Customers of both banks will have access to all services at any of the 18 branches after Oct. 8.

Two dead in Gorham crash

GORHAM, N.H.—An elderly man and woman were killed when their car careened through several parking lots, crashed into some trees and flipped over Sunday morning. Police said Frank Amirault, 82, of Randolph, may have suffered some sort of medical problem shortly before speeding off the road around 10 a.m. Authorities said the car drove across another road, through two parking lots and a line of trees before coming to rest in the yard of a nearby home. Frank Amirault died at the scene. Dorothy Amirault, 80, died shortly after arriving at the hospital.

Berlin, Gorham teaming up

BERLIN, N.H.—City officials and their peers in neighboring Gorham hope cooperation will help lift both communities out of their shaky economic situation. Hit hard by the financial troubles at the pulp and paper complex that spans both communities, officials say their future depends on combining their strengths. On Friday, business leaders from both communities joined a consortium to take charge of a $200,000 federal economic development grant heading to the area. The money will be used to hire a planner who can set the course for the region, helping it diversify its economy. Layoffs at the mills, owned by Pulp and Paper of America, began last month and have reached all but a few dozen of the 860 workers.

Attacks

HALF MAST. On the Bethel common, as across the country, flags are flying at half mast, in honor of the thousands of people who were believed to be injured or killed in terrorist attacks Tuesday at the World Trade Center in New York City and at the Pentagon in Washington, D.C. (Photo by Michael Daniels) fly out of Boston for Seattle, but I didn't know his flight time and hadn't yet heard the planes involved were destined for Los Angeles, so I was very concerned.

"I also have a brother currently in the city and was worried about him as well as Leah Bonnema and Andy Dennis, two of Cailin's past classmates who are also in New York. As the long evening progressed and after many phone calls, Leslie and I learned everyone was all right, though I'm sure changed somewhat forever." (As of press time Wednesday, The Citizen had heard of no cases in which a friend or relative of anyone from this area was among the casualties.)

Even for those who did not have friends and loved ones at risk, the news of thousands of apparent deaths was mind numbing, and the sorrow profound.

As events unfolded, plans for the day and job responsibilities were slowly put on hold. In some businesses all pretense of work was abandoned.

At Sunday River Ski Resort, the workday began with ongoing preparations for the upcoming ski season. But as word of the attacks began to spread, "our business ground to a halt," said communication director Susan Duplesse.

Staff members congregated in offices with televisions, or wandered from office to office. "Meetings were canceled," Duplesse said, "and anyone who felt they needed to go home was told to go."

Most of the staff members who didn't have anyone waiting at home opted to stay with their colleagues, Duplesse said.

At Gould Academy, the school day was put on hold. An all-school assembly was held at 11 a.m., after which the students met in adviser/advisee groups to discuss the events or to contact relatives. In-house and outside support was made available for those who desired it.

At Telstar, new principal David Murphy tried to keep things as normal as possible, but students who wished were allowed to make telephone calls, and staff and students spent much of the day watching the news.

In the Middle School, some older pupils wanted to see the news, but most of the younger pupils didn't want details, only to know they were safe, according to guidance counselor Karen Bean.

The tragedy will be, for this generation of children, "like when Kennedy was shot — you remember where you were," she said.

In the Bethel Foodliner, one shopper asked another: "Are you glued to your TV?"

Most of those who could be were.

And many turned to their churches, which opened their doors and planned special services to help members deal with the enormity of Tuesday's events.

Others found solace in solitude. Near dusk, said Sharon Lyon of Bethel: "I stepped outside to look up at the sky after straightening our U.S. flag that had been wound up by the breeze on its horizontal pole. It seemed to me the most beautiful sky, filled with the most wispy and lacy cirrus in the fore of the clearest blue vignette imaginable. I am sure close to 45 years has passed since such a lovely sphere of blue and white spread over our countryside. At first I was sure it was due to the total lack of jet airplane contrails. But the more I consider the awesome view the more it seems like it was painted by a special artist to console me and show that the home of the free and brave will endure."

DAN KUNKLE, NEW HEAD OF SCHOOL at Gould Academy, and his wife, Kathy, have plenty challenges ahead of them, including construction of the McLaughlin Science Center (background), an upcoming renovation of Hanscom Hall, broadening the school's applicant pool, and the ongoing capital campaign. As those tasks progress, they'll get to know the school. Then, Kunkle said, it will be time to ask, "What's next?" (Photo by Rebecca Zicarelli)

Kunkles will study Gould Academy.

Then, Kunkle said they need to ask, "What's next?"

"What's next may not be about buildings and capital campaigns," he said. "It may be more about people. I'm always interested in looking for new opportunities — what we can do academically, in athletics, in the arts."

The Kunkles' vision for Gould is based on the school's tradition of a strong liberal arts education. Over the last twenty-plus years, the ski program has become a part of that tradition, as well. The Kunkles said they want to extend the success of the ski program to other areas, including academics and fine arts.

"I don't see us as a skiing school but as a traditional independent school where kids can get to the very top in skiing. The new science building provides an excellent opportunity to provide students with challenging academic programs. The fine arts program is strong."

"My commitment is to finding that balance of top-quality athletics, arts, and a well-rounded liberal arts education. I want Gould to be a school that gives students an opportunity to be the very best that they can be in some areas, but still be well-rounded."

The former title of 'headmaster' is now 'head of school.'

Beyond the buildings, the athletic fields, and the slopes, the key to that kind of success depends on people in the school.

"Without a doubt," Kunkle said, "the most important asset that a school has is the strength of the faculty and staff. We have an array of people with different ages, experiences, and family structures here. The wealth of expertise that exists here became clear to us during the head search process."

Kunkle credits the quality of the staff to the former headmaster, Bill Clough.

"The strength of the people here is a reflection of what he did. It's a healthy organization."

Some early changes that the Kunkles initiated have been warmly welcomed. The auditorium in Bingham Hall has new chairs and fresh paint; new carpeting will be installed any day now. Students have welcomed slight changes in the dress code (they can wear blue jeans to dinner now) and improved food in the cafeteria.

The Kunkles admire the beauty of the area — the patches of early fall foliage, the sound of the trains passing through town, the weather, and the wonderful views. They are grateful for the graciousness of the residents, as well.

"This has been a very easy community to move into," Kathy said. "The town has been welcoming," Kunkle added. "It's an easy place to live."

A LITTLE BIT OF PARADISE? Perhaps, but nearby residents are going to have to wait until at least next year for the town to fix their balky sewer mains and rough roads. (Photo by Rebecca Zicarelli) near the water reservoir. But when the project was put out to bid, there was only one bidder, M&H Construction, and the company's bid was considerably higher than anticipated. That may be in part due to the fact that the project did not go to bid until August, leaving a short time frame for completing the work during the current construction season. Cole took part of the responsibility for letting the project drag on so late into the year. "I'm disappointed with myself as much as the engineering firm that we didn't get the job up and running sooner," he said. The high price, coupled with the need to resolve a number of design questions and to complete the paperwork necessary for obtaining low-interest loans for the work led engineering firm, Weston & Sampson Engineers of Portsmouth, N.H. to recommend delaying the project, and putting it out to bid again this winter. Local contractor Jack Cross agreed. "I think with a new bid you're going to get more bidding," he told the selectmen last week. (Cross said the job is too big for him to bid on.) The selectmen agreed, but, "with reluctance," said Chairman Dutch Dresser. Following the vote, selectman Bob Everett said: "I just hope that we have a better situation in the spring and we can actually do something."

activity. I regret these broad generalizations and would welcome an opportunity to apologize for same." Parker then opened the floor to comments from the young people. They were quick to say there is a lot of interest in a skateboard park. "My brothers like skateboarding. They've been waiting for (the park) for a long time. I have, too," said Felicia Dumont, age 8. Michelle Delulio said the park would provide entertainment for teens in a town where there is little. "There's nothing for us to do here. There's nothing," she said. Committee member Scott Brown said if the park were built, "a lot of responsibility will rest with your group — taking care of it, not vandalizing it. There's nobody that can police it better than you guys." Parker said opening up a public facility always brings risk. "We realize we're going to use this place, and good things are going to happen, and bad things are going to happen. Bethel doesn't have any of these problems because we haven't allowed a place like this to be created." Carol White, a Sunday River employee who said she would be involved in moving the elements to the park, said she currently commutes 53 miles to Windham to take her son to a large park operated by the DARE program. She said she would like to see a larger park than the 60X40-foot one currently planned. At that size, she said, the facility will quickly be outgrown. Parker said the plan presented to the selectmen called for a park aimed at beginners. "That was the original idea sold to the town," he said. As for the idea of a basketball court, Parker said there are already courts at Telstar and Crescent Park schools, and many people have them at their homes. Another committee member, Tom Wentworth, said he also favored the park. If a basketball court were put in instead, he said, "It could just as well be someone playing basketball causing damage." White suggested the park be set up as soon as possible. "We have two months till this winter," she said. "Let's see how it goes." Cole said Monday the committee would send a memo to selectmen regarding the recommendation. At the same time, preparations are underway to move the elements from Sunday River to the Pathway. Still to be resolved is the problem of uneven paving at the skateboard park site, he said. The committee must also decide how much of a role it should play in overseeing the park. That issue will be discussed further at upcoming meetings, Parker said.

TRAILWORK

The Way I See It

by Sharon Bouchard

Sharon Bouchard's column is published here by special arrangement with the Advertising Department of this newspaper.

We had a three family yard sale this past weekend and it was quite an experience.

In a conversation earlier in the summer with Doug, my oldest, we both agreed that we had each accumulated quite a bit of stuff that we could easily get rid of. Much of which, at least in his case, came from other people's yard sales.

Then when talking to my daughter Renee, she had mentioned that though she didn't have a lot of stuff she had even less room and would love to get rid of what she could.

So the decision was made that we would have a family yard sale at my house because even though I don't have much yard, I do have a wide driveway and I live right in town so the traffic flow should be pretty good.

I have to explain that we did this a few years ago in the early part of the summer. It turned out to be one of the hottest weekends on record for June and we basically sat around frying in the hot sun while very few people picked over our goods.

It was a lot of work for not much return, but it was, in fact just too darn hot, people were not out and about unless it was to go to the beach.

You'd have thought that we would have remembered that whole experience and our disappointment in what a failure it had been. I should have at least remembered that most of the goods from that sale ended up on my front porch where they stayed for a few years.

But no, we didn't remember any of that. We just thought we could make some extra money and get rid of a lot of stuff at the same time. In fact, we all had great plans for the new found wealth we would have. Renee was going to get new tires for her car. Doug was going to spend his money on fixing up a car and I was really planning on a new mattress.

As you may have guessed, we had another dismal failure while we fried in the hot sun on an unusually hot weekend.

It was not a lost weekend however. We all spent two days of quality time together. My son and daughter, their spouses and the grandkids all together sharing some moments. We all found items that each other had that we wanted, thus we exchanged assorted stuff. And we all found out that some of the Christmas or birthday presents that we bought each other and thought were so special were obviously not all that special since they turned up unopened on the yard sale table.

I also found a few lost items that over time had migrated to my kids' houses. Imagine my surprise when I saw things I thought I'd lost years ago sitting there on a table in my driveway for sale!

If not profitable, it was certainly interesting. Even the people who did stop and look things over were interesting.

I found that people who made conversation either about the weather or to ask a question about a particular item made a connection with us and felt obligated to buy something. Unfortunately, it was usually a $1 or less item. In fact, these nice people appeared to be all most frantically scanning the tables for something low priced yet useful. I really felt that they didn't want to hurt our feelings by walking away empty handed.

Then there were the ones that went about the business of picking up just about every item and looking it over. If one of us attempted to engage them in conversation they would avoid eye contact, nod and put the item they were holding back down.

If they happened to find something they actually wanted, say something that had a $5 price tag, they would offer $2.50 which we of course took.

I think these people are the ones that are very serious yard sales. An even more serious type was the person who stopped their car right in front of the driveway, looked for a minute or two, got out and went to the item of interest and either made an offer or got back in their car without a word and drove away.

And there were the drive-bys, sometimes they would drive by two or three times slowing to a crawl then speeding up and driving away. I speculated that these people had something particular they were looking for, made a trip or two by to see if we had it and when unable to see anything like it gave up the search. They could have gotten out of their cars and asked, but that would have required contact and contact might make them feel obligated to buy something.

My favorite people were the ones who were not looking for a yard sale at all and just happened to come down my street. Most of these people would keep their eyes straight ahead and not even cast a glance our way. Even when they had to slow down because of the drive-bys they seemed to me to make a special effort to keep their eyes averted. One person did look and shrugged as if to say "Sorry, I'm just passing by."

The sale is over and there will be no new mattress on my bed any time soon.

For any people who may be planning a yard sale, I wish you much better luck than I had. And for those of you who go to yard sales looking for good deals, it just so happens that I have everything from my sale on my front porch if you're interested — real cheap.

As for me, the way I see it I should just stick to going to other people's yard sales and avoid making eye contact or conversation. I really don't want to feel obligated to buy anything.

Bethel

by Virginia Keniston
Major Mark Clanton and his family have arrived at their new station in the Netherlands, and Lisa Clanton has returned to Philadelphia after a mini reunion of the three Clanton kids at Keith's ranch in Hayward, Calif.

Jill and Philip Andrews have moved to the house formerly owned by Ken and Betsy Paquette on Mason Street. They came from Oregon to be nearer family who live mostly in New England. Philip does massage while Jill is a physical therapist.

Hi and Mary Lou Berry entertained her daughter and husband, Mary Lou and Roger Killelea, granddaughter, Allyson, and George Gartley and great-grandson, Jacob, at Lone Pine over the weekend. On Saturday, daughter Rhonda and Brian Dalton arrived from Rounda, Fla., for a week with them. It's a busy time at Lone Pine.

Bill Bancroft celebrated his 80th birthday on Saturday at the Veterans' Home in South Paris. Those attending were Paul and Judy Halle of Lisbon, Phyllis Bancroft, Stanley and Elizabeth Lord, Eleanor Jodrey, Earlon and Mary Keniston from Bethel and many from Albany. The Richard Felt Orchestra played for dancing. All had a great time.

Joe and Gerry Shimamura returned home after spending a five-week vacation/business trip with their son, Jody. On the trip they stopped by the Olympic Center in Park City, Utah, and visited with Jon Owen, an Olympic coach for the American Luge team. He and Jody were classmates and lifelong friends from kindergarten on, both training for the Olympic Luge team at Lake Placid, N.Y., years ago.

On their trip, they visited Bryce Canyon and Zion National Park, drove through The Badlands in South Dakota, stopping to look for rocks and minerals along the way. They startled a beautiful bobcat in a mineshaft but managed to get good video of it. Two weeks were enjoyed in California swimming in the Pacific. For Gerry's birthday, they toured Hollywood and ate in a fancy restaurant. On the return home they camped in a national forest near the New Mexico/Arizona border (very wild area, not a campground) seeing only one truck in two days. They learned later a grizzly was shot about two miles from where they camped. Stopping at White Sands National Park, New Mexico, they got quite a chuckle to see that they had to "plow" the shifting sand dunes like we plow snowdrifts. While visiting New Orleans, La., Joe, Gerry and grandson David stayed overnight with Joe's childhood classmate, Standing on the levee holding back the Mississippi, David had the chance to see a "working river," as tugboats pushed barges up and down the river Tom Sawyer and Huck Finn raved on. The travelers said it's fun to go but greater to be

Carroll Bean took a trip into northern Maine recently.

If someone would like to bring me kin a treat, I would like Cheese Curls.

Irene Standish, Olive Williams and Becky Ricker visited Mildred Newell at St. Mary's Nursing Home in Lewiston recently.

Irene Standish has returned to her home in Florida after spending some time with her mother, Olive Williams, at the Bethel House. She visited me a lot while in Bethel and always brought Olive and Becky with her.

Those Pringles tasted good, Bob. "Some people look down on the animal world. Think dogs and cats are a bore. Why limit your friends to just two feet apiece when so many wild creatures have four."

A lady with a lovely Siamese cat visited Grace and me the other day. Don't recall even seeing them before.

Pastor Rick had to have more back surgery. The Rev. David Larson filled in for him on Sunday.

Folks come in here some days and say it is more like fall outside. It is just getting more comfortable to me in here. It has been down to 40 degrees.

Thanks, folks, for the picture of the quilt. I could not figure out what it was the picture of. I always enjoyed the quilt show in Bethel.

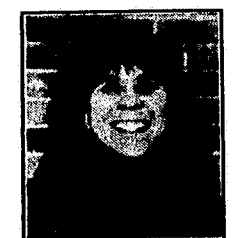

Thanks Karlene and Jim and Julia for the birthday cards. Now I have about 50.

Yes, J.J., I have at least one more person living in New York that reads my column. She did live next door to me at the Bethel House. Says she takes The Citizen just for my column. Folks read my column from at least 10 different states.

God Bless you all.

Our neighborhood turkey has multiplied.

There is now an entire family, almost an entire flock of turkeys. Young and old alike pick through the fields looking for food. I am not sure what they are finding, but they all seemed very intent at looking. I saw them in the back field after it was mowed, as Ramsey predicted I would. I also saw them down the road. Tasha did not see them when I did. That would have been a very big temptation for her to chase.

I've gotten half my wood delivered and now am intent at bringing it in and stacking it. I did great the first couple of days, but this heat was too much for me. I did one half a wheelbarrow full and gave it up until it turns cooler. Hopefully, tonight I will be able to do a little. I even managed to cover half of it before it rained. Now I am waiting, also, for the rest to be delivered. Of course, it will take a while to stack what I have, but I figure I have a few months, still, before the snow flies too hard.

I saw definite moose tracks on the road yesterday. They were large so it must have been a big moose. I haven't seen it for a while, but I will be looking for it on subsequent walks. Tasha was sniffing like crazy, so she may have smelled it.

Yesterday's rain was much needed and I hope we got a sufficient quantity to make a difference. I was going to go out after supper when it stopped for awhile, but much to my surprise it was already dark. Then later it started to pour again. Of course, since it started to pour on my way home, my windshield wiper broke. I had to get out in the pouring rain and try to fix it. I got it to work again, but will have to check it in daylight to see if it needs to be replaced or just tightened. Those Vista wipers are notorious for getting loose. I keep a wrench on the dash for just that purpose. Needless to say, however, I was dripping wet by the time I got home.

I'm looking for a location to hold this month's poetry reading, as the Café is still not done upstairs. I don't know if I dare try the fire station, again. Perhaps I'll look for a Bethel location, as it is a little more central.

I want to thank whoever left me the veggies the other night. They were great. I gave the tomato to a friend and ate the rest.

That's all for this week. I have a mini paper for my class that has to be e-mailed in today. Have a good week and enjoy the end-of-summer weather.

Mason Township

Sometimes it seems like the more we have the harder we have to work to stay ahead. In my case, the past few weeks have been a real pain in the pocketbook.

First, my lawn tractor, which I also use for snow blowing, went on the blink. I got out the oil toolbox and began to tinker; had to give up when I couldn't even figure out how to get it apart. Then I took it to "Timer" Bailey's Outdoor Power Equipment. So far, I've spent over $200 on parts, and I don't have the tractor back yet.

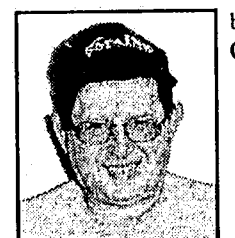

Shortly after the tractor trouble started, my tiller broke, and I spent nearly $150 for parts for that.

Most recently, I cleaned our chimney and the furnace, which provides hot water for both our hot water heating and our domestic hot water needs. Once I had the funnel off the back of the furnace, I decided to tighten the fitting on the hot water line, which was seeping where the pipe connects to the hot water coil. You guessed it. The more I tightened, the faster the water squirted out of the line connection. Brooks Bros. sent out a furnace man, who determined that the coil was bad. We've been without hot water for almost a week while the coil has been on order. Jack Brooks told me the replacement arrived late on Friday, and we'll have hot water by sometime Monday. No word yet on how big a dent in the wallet that will be. In the meantime, we've been showering at big sister Verna's place. At times like this I sometimes contemplate selling all my modern contrivances, moving to Hawaii and living in a tent on the beach.

This year's dry spell has been another hardship. I saved our large garden by pumping water from Hutchinson Brook to irrigate every few days, until the brook got so low my inch-and-a-half water line sucked up the entire brook flowage and started sucking air. That was about mid-August. Since then, I have watched the water level in our little pond drop by a couple feet and Jelly's pasture turn into a nearly brown and crusty stubble. I have been supplementing Jelly's limited pasture fare with hay, sweet corn stalks and various excess garden produce (undersize or sunburned potatoes, squash and melon peels, oversize beets, split-open cabbage and other miscellaneous forage). In fact, I feel like a cow is one of the best "composters" one could have. They take dry hay and all sorts of household vegetable waste and turn it into almost perfect compost. And the byproduct is some of the best beef you can eat.

North Newry

by Gil Seely

Call to worship at the Newry Community Church was held Sunday morning, Aug.

26, at 9 a.m., with Pastor Rodney Hanscom at the pulpit and daughter Nancy at the organ. The message of the day was "A Word to the Wise" from Jeremiah 9:23. "Thus saith the Lord, Let not the wise man glory in his wisdom, neither let the mighty man glory in his riches." A prayer followed with hymns, benediction and postlude. Amen.

Grandparents Day was Sept. 9. What is a grandparent? A grandparent is a combination of work-worn aged hands, after a lifetime of toil, a loving heart and endless stories of days when the family was young. A grandparent wears old age with dignity and composure. You don't notice what grandpa's wear. You only see love and tenderness in their faces, as they fondle their meals, keeping house, helping neighbors, drying tears of past generations, as well as present. And pray that they may be allowed to go on doing it for a few more years.

Grandfathers have spent hours teaching their grandchildren how to fish and hunt, how to tie a knot, how to dig worms, work in the garden. Grandparents have run the gamut of human emotions: joy, defeat, success, failure, heartbreak, sorrow and perhaps tragedy, and have come through with wisdom and tranquility endowed to those whose tears have been replaced by calm acceptance and quiet outlook given only to those that weathered life's battles. "The nicest possible place to hear a story is in Grandmother's lap." Grandparents can always be counted on to produce sweets, cookies and candies that seem to taste nicer from them than anyone else. Grandparents just don't champion the underdog, and lost causes, and when a child is in trouble for not washing behind his ears, they tell them that their parents were almost nine before they ever washed there. God has a special place for them in heaven, and when they go there, they will be smiling down, and on their lap will be one of God's little angels. The one that reminds them of you.

Bill and Sylvia Wight recently attended the wedding of a granddaughter, Angela, to Michael Seymour of Burlington, Vt. The wedding was held outdoors at Top Notch Resort in Stowe, Vt. It was a beautiful summer wedding. Stephen and Marlene of Old Town completed home on the Howard Pond Road. Also with them are Mrs. Robinson's sister and family.

Vintage Phaetons (left) and Bentley Roadsters (below) were among the classic cars visiting the area this past weekend for the Classic Car Club of America's first-ever tour in Maine north of Portland. More than 140 cars took part in the tour, which is one of two held annually by the national club. While here, the owners stayed at Sunday River's Summit Hotel and took part in a number of western Maine summer activities. On Monday, the caravan set off for three days at the Samoset Resort in Rockport and then three days in Bar Harbor. The cars participating were restored and authentic in every detail. But in the Bentley cockpit above, Gilded Age champagne bottles gave way to modern-day Poland Spring water bottles. (Photos by Michael Daniels)

Also attended. Melissa Strauss of North Waterford spent last weekend with her grandparents. The three of them went to Eleanor and Norman Davis' community cookout including the best sweet corn of the season. "Call to worship at the Newry Community Church was held Sunday morning, Sept. 2, at 9 a.m., with Pastor Rodney Hanscom. The message of the day was from St. Luke 14:11. "For whoever exalted himself shall be abased; and he that humbleth himself shall be exalted."

Upton

by Eleanor LeComte
Contrary to the rumors around Upton, I have not left town and taken a position as a syndicated reporter for the New York Times. Actually, Richard and I have been on a two-week tour of the Maritime Provinces. If you have three hours available, I'll be glad to rave on about the beauty of the Cabot Trail, Prince Edward Island, and Nova Scotia in general. The scenery, the food, and the very pleasant inhabitants were a gift. One of the highlights of the trip was a four-day visit with Jim and Evelyn Kenney at their chalet in Parrsboro. The chalet overlooks the Bay of Fundy where the tides rise and fall 50 feet every six and a half hours. This phenomenon occurs only in two places in the world, Nova Scotia and Inchon, Korea. It is most remarkable to see the sunrises and sunsets over the ocean that take your breath away. Evelyn and Jim were most gracious hosts, and we are very grateful to them. We took many pictures on the trip and it would do you good to avoid Richard and me for about six months till we come down off "Cloud Nine."

The annual Pearl Fysh Memorial Picnic was held at Birch Point. This year they surprised Richard and me by making it a 50th Wedding Anniversary Party. It is something we will never forget, and we thank all the neighbors who honored us. As a wise person once said, "Don't count your money, count your friends." Simone Lavallee is much improved after a miserable bout with sciatica. Barbara Stratton continues to improve after a horrendous accident in New Jersey. However, she is more worried about not visiting Upton than she is about her physical condition. Roger Lavallee and Clyde Stratton, under the supervision of Gene Wixom, are doing some work on Clyde and Barbara's Birch Point Camp. The Williamson house is getting a face-lift with siding. Claude Lavallee and his work party are busy doing the job. The lake is very low. Boating is hazardous in some areas. It is impossible to run a motor close to the dock and shore. The weather has been super but very dry. The drought and water control is responsible for low water in the lake.

It is such a short season up here. We had better stop our griping because there will be ice on the lake before we know it.

I had a telephone call from a member of the Fuller family. I failed to get her name but she was delightful to converse with. She is 84 years old and had a voice of someone in the 30s. She related to me the wonderful feeling the family had at their annual reunion in Upton, visiting the buildings that they frequented many years ago. They were happy to see the school, church, Ladies Aid Building, and cemetery looking so lovely. She remarked on the flowers outside the church. Sue Nelson has really kept them in great shape all summer.

The original Fuller family settled on East "B" Hill. Upton is very dear to this family.

We were saddened to hear of the closing of the Berlin Paper Mill. It will affect many friends of Upton. We wish them the best and hope it will get back to normal in the future.

Carroll Bean took a trip into northern Maine recently.

If someone would like to bring me a treat, I would like Cheese Curls.

Irene Standish, Olive Williams and Becky Ricker visited Mildred Newell at St. Mary's Nursing Home in Lewiston recently.

Irene Standish has returned to her home in Florida after spending some time with her mother, Olive Williams, at the Bethel House. She visited me a lot while in Bethel and always brought Olive and Becky with her.

Those Pringles tasted good, Bob.

"Some people look down on the animal world. Think dogs and cats are a bore. Why limit your friends to just two feet apiece when so many wild creatures have four."

A lady with a lovely Siamese cat visited Grace and me the other day. Don't recall even seeing them before.

Pastor Rick had to have more back surgery. The Rev. David Larson filled in for him on Sunday.

Folks come in here some days and say it is more like fall outside. It is just getting more comfortable to me in here. It has been down to 40 degrees.

Thanks, folks, for the picture of the quilt. I could not figure out what it was the picture of. I always enjoyed the quilt show in Bethel.

Thanks Karlene and Jim and Julia for the birthday cards. Now I have about 50.

Yes, J.J., I have at least one more person living in New York that reads my column. She did live next door to me at the Bethel House. Says she takes The Citizen just for my column. Folks read my column from at least 10 different states.

God Bless you all.

flock of turkeys. Young and old alike pick through the fields looking for food. I am not sure what they are finding, but they all seemed very intent at looking. I saw them in the back field after it was mowed, as Ramsey predicted I would. I also saw them down the road. Tasha did not see them when I did. That would have been a very big temptation for her to chase.

I've gotten half my wood delivered and now am intent at bringing it in and stacking it. I did great the first couple of days, but this heat was too much for me. I did one half a wheelbarrow full and gave it up until it turns cooler. Hopefully, tonight I will be able to do a little. I even managed to cover half of it before it rained. Now I am waiting, also, for the rest to be delivered. Of course, it will take a while to stack what I have, but I figure I have a few months, still, before the snow flies too hard.

I saw definite moose tracks on the road yesterday. They were large so it must have been a big moose. I haven't seen it for a while, but I will be looking for it on subsequent walks. Tasha was sniffing like crazy, so she may have smelled it.

Yesterday's rain was much needed and I hope we got a sufficient quantity to make a difference. I was going to go out after supper when it stopped for awhile, but much to my surprise it was already dark. Then later it started to pour again. Of course, since it started to pour on my way home, my windshield wiper broke. I had to get out in the pouring rain and try to fix it. I got it to work again, but will have to check it in daylight to see if it needs to be replaced or just tightened. Those Vista wipers are notorious for getting loose. I keep a wrench on the dash for just that purpose. Needless to say, however, I was dripping wet by the time I got home.

I'm looking for a location to hold this month's poetry reading, as the Café is still not done upstairs. I don't know if I dare try the fire station, again. Perhaps I'll look for a Bethel location, as it is a little more central.

I want to thank whoever left me the veggies the other night. They were great. I gave the tomato to a friend and ate the rest.

That's all for this week. I have a mini paper for my class that has to be e-mailed in today. Have a good week and enjoy the end-of-summer weather.

Sometimes it seems like the more we have the harder we have to work to stay ahead.

In my case, the past few weeks have been a real pain in the pocketbook. First, my lawn tractor, which I also use for snow blowing, went on the blink. I got out the ol' toolbox and began to tinker; had to give up when I couldn't even figure out how to get it apart. Then I took it to "Timer" Bailey's Outdoor Power Equipment. So far, I've spent over $200 on parts, and I don't have the tractor back yet.

Shortly after the tractor trouble started, my tiller broke, and I spent nearly $150 for parts for that. Most recently, I cleaned out my chimney and the furnace, which provides hot water for both our hot water heating and our domestic hot water needs. Once I had the funnel off the back of the furnace, I decided to tighten the fitting on the hot water line, which was seeping where the pipe connects to the hot water coil. You guessed it. The more I tightened, the faster the water squirted out of the line connection. Brooks Bros. sent out a furnace man, who determined that the coil was bad. We've been without

by Gil Seely

Call to worship at the Newry Community Church was held Sunday morning, Aug.

26, at 9 a.m., with Pastor Rodney Hanscom at the pulpit and daughter Nancy at the organ. The message of the day was "A Word to the Wise" from Jeremiah 9:23. "Thus saith the Lord, Let not the wise man glory in his wisdom, neither let the mighty man glory in his might, let not the rich man glory in his riches; A prayer followed with hymns, benediction and postlude. Amen.

Grandparents Day was Sept. 9. What is a grandparent? A grandparent is a combination of work-worn aged hands, after a lifetime of toil, a loving heart and endless stories of days when the family was young. A grandparent wears old age with dignity and composure. You don't notice what grandpa's wear. You only see love and tenderness in their faces, as they fondle their meals, keeping house, helping neighbors, drying tears of past generations, as well as present. And pray that they may be allowed to go on doing it for a few more years. Grandfathers have spent hours teaching their grandchildren how to fish and hunt, how to tie a knot, how to dig worms, work in the garden. Grandparents have run the gamut of human emotions, joy, defeat, success, failure, heartbreak, sorrow and perhaps tragedy, and have come through with wisdom and tranquility endowed to those whose tears have been replaced by calm acceptance and quiet outlook given only to those that weathered life's battles. "The nicest possible place to hear a story is on Grandmother's lap." Grandparents can always be counted on to produce sweets, cookies and candies that seem to taste nicer from them than anyone else. Grandparents just don't champion the underdog, and lost causes, and when a child is in trouble for not washing behind his ears, they tell them that their parents were almost nine before they ever washed their hair. God has a special place for them in heaven, and when they go there, they will be smiling down, and on their lap will be one of God's little angels. The one that reminds them of you."

Bill and Sylvia Wight recently attended the wedding of a granddaughter, Angela, to Michael Seymour of Burlington, Vt. The wedding was held outdoors at Top Notch Resort in Stowe, Vt. It was a beautiful summer wedding. Stephen and Marlene of Old Town

Vintage Phaetons (left) and Bentley Roadsters (below) were among the classic cars visiting the area this past weekend for the Classic Car Club of America's first-ever tour in Maine north of Portland. More than 140 cars took part in the tour, which is one of two held annually by the national club. While here, the owners stayed at Sunday River's Summit Hotel and took part in a number of western Maine summer activities. On Monday, the caravan set off for three days at the Samoset Resort in Rockport and then three days in Bar Harbor. The cars participating were restored and authentic in every detail. also attended. Melissa Strauss of North Waterford spent last weekend with her grandparents. The three of them went to Eleanor and Norman Davis' community cookout including the best sweet corn of the season.

Upton

by Eleanor LeComte
Contrary to the rumors around Upton, I have not left town and taken a position as a syndicated reporter for the New York Times. Actually, Richard and I have been on a two-week tour of the Maritime Provinces. If you have three hours available, I'll be glad to rave on about the beauty of the Cabot Trail, Prince Edward Island, and Nova Scotia in general. The scenery, the food, and the very pleasant inhabitants were a gift. One of the highlights of the trip was a four-day visit with Jim and Evelyn Kenney at their chalet in Parrsboro. The chalet overlooks the Bay of Fundy where the tides rise and fall 50 feet every six and a half hours. This phenomenon occurs only in two places in the world, Nova Scotia and Inchon, Korea. It is most remarkable to see the sunrises and sunsets over the ocean that take your breath away. Evelyn and Jim were most gracious hosts, and we are very grateful to them. We took many pictures on the trip and it would do you good to avoid Richard and me for about six months till we come down off "Cloud Nine."

The annual Pearl Fysh Memorial Picnic was held at Birch Point. This year they surprised Richard and me by making it a 50th Wedding Anniversary Party. It is something we will never forget, and we thank all the neighbors who honored us. As a wise person once said, "Don't count your money, count your friends."

Simone Lavalley is much improved after a miserable bout with sciatica. Barbara Stratton continues to improve after a horrendous accident in New Jersey. However, she is more worried about not visiting Upton than she is about her physical condition. Roger Lavalley and Clyde Stratton, under the supervision of Gene Wixom, are doing some work on Clyde and Barbara's Birch Point Camp. The Williamson house is getting a face-lift with siding. Claude Lavalley and his work party are busy doing the job.

The lake is very low. Boating is hazardous in some areas. It is impossible to run a motor close to the dock and shore. The weather has been super but very dry. The drought and water control is responsible for low water in the lake. It is such a short season up here. We had better stop our griping because there will be ice on the lake before we know it.

I had a telephone call from a member of the Fuller family. I failed to get her name but she was delightful to converse with. She is 84 years old and had a voice of someone in the 30s. She related to me the wonderful feeling the family had at their annual reunion in Upton, visiting the buildings that they frequented many years ago. They were happy to see the school, church, Ladies Aid Building, and cemetery looking so lovely. She remarked on the flowers outside the church. Sue Nelson has really kept them in great shape all summer.

The original Fuller family settled on East "B" Hill. Upton is very dear to this family.

We were saddened to hear of the closing of the Berlin Paper Mill. It

feeders all over town. We have a pesky little guy who hangs by his feet from the roof and sips the hummingbird feeder dry. We are planning to acquire a "Have a Heart" trap, catch the monster and give him to Becky Kendall, since she doesn't own a cat.

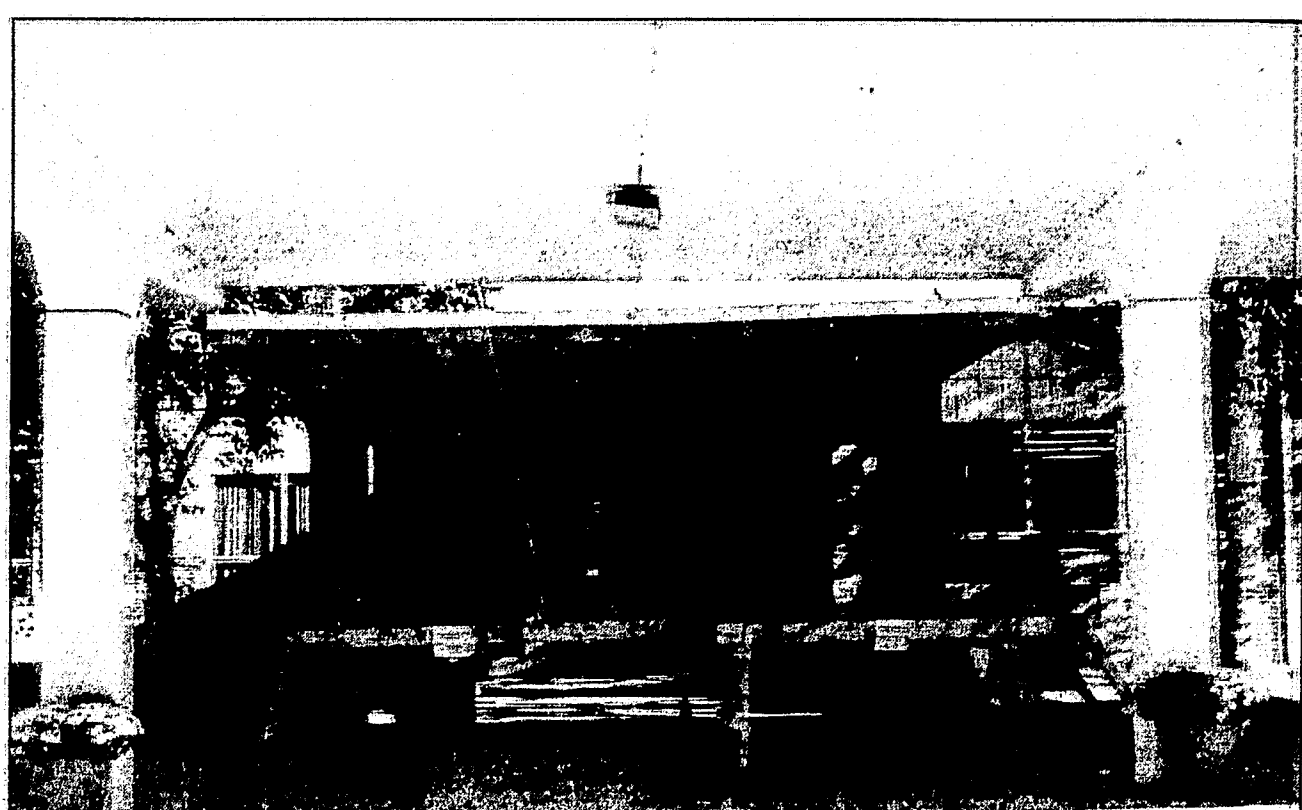

We still have a couple of "hummers" visiting the flowers and the feeders. We understand that there is a mother wild turkey and four chicks in town. I can't reveal their location for fear someone may plan to put them on the Thanksgiving menu. While in Canada we saw quite a few bald eagles, ospreys and osprey nests, but Upton seems to have many more songbirds. I believe the warblers are wending their way south. I observed three Yellow-Breasted Chats in my garden. A Black and White Warbler crossed Mill Road on Thursday. There seem to be fewer flickers on the roadside.

The "Bird of the Week" is the Black and White Warbler, formerly known as the Black and White Creeper. It is known for its habit of creeping around tree trunks and large branches searching for insects.

Meeting this week will be the Upton School Board on Thursday, Sept. 13 at 4 p.m., the Selectmen's meeting, Tuesday, Sept. 11 at 7 p.m., and the Ladies Aid Craft session at Lucille's, Tuesday, Sept. 11 at 6:30 p.m.

The Ellingwood Family 17th annual Homecoming was held on Aug. 12 at Margaret Mitchell's camp on Back Street. It was a tribute to Ethel Ellingwood, Margaret's mother.

Margaret Mitchell and Tex Fogwill hosted the gathering of 34 family members. Attending the event were Margaret's sister, Tillie Grundy of Sebago and Venice, Fla., John Rizzo Jr., Dianne, Alex and Jonathan of Potomac, Pa., Margaret Griffin of Portland, Murrel and Carl Scott from Boothbay Harbor, Judy and Jerry Conley of Portland, Felecia Griffin of Westbrook, Ethel Dow of Ocean Park, Ed Presby Jr. and Liz Jansson of Saco, Don and Joan Presby of Kingfield Plantation, Richard and Jackie Donavan of Scarborough, Jackie Fedchenko of Pawtucket, R.L. Wendy and Jim Trotter of Lebanon, N.H., Joe and Robin Fedchenko of Springfield, Vt., Aimee and Paul Dunham of Enfield, N.H., Andrea Burnham, Sara Trotter, Miranda Fedchenko, Whitney Tostenon, Theresa Coney, Hazel and Bill Marls, Chris Disagio and Jason Botany. A delicious dinner, sports, and swimming at Screw Auger Falls rounded out a beautiful reunion with perfect summer weather all day.

Andover

by Joan Stinson Carney

There is an error that I would like to clear up. I didn't receive curt services from the ladies at Andover general. I received curb service and very nice, caring service it is too. Thanks again. Darlene, Becky and Agnes. I wish to add to my thank-you list the following: Betty Davis for her mail delivery, Mary Bailey for her wonderful fruit basket from the Calvary Church, and Taran and Brianna Vialli for signing my cast.

Mr. and Mrs. Russell Learned from Gig Harbor, Wash., have been visiting with relative and friends in Andover.

Rodney Swarr was an overnight guest of his parents, Violet and Robert Swarr of East Andover. The new tax bills are almost ready to send out; you should have yours by the end of the week. You are going to have a nice surprise — the tax rate went down almost two whole points. Not too shabby, huh? Don't forget the Special Town Meeting on Tuesday, Sept. 18, at 7 p.m. at the Town Hall. Remember, "it's votes that count," so get out and do it. I just love "The Weakest Link."

Birthdays for the upcoming week include: Rachel Chenery, Marjorie Purcell, Joyce Frazier, Dwight Hutchins, Carol Melzar and Danny Pearce on the 14th; Judy Conrad and Jessica Freeman on the 15th; Vi Yates on the 16th; Aaron Carrier, Stephen Learned, Melanie Jo Kirshner, Maggie Humphrey and Bill Kelley on the 17th; William G. MacDonald, Brooke Wardwell and Dottie Blood on the 18th; Don French, Amica Jolicœur, Emily Bodemer and Becky Hudspeth on the 19th; Ed Watt on the 20th.

The word of the week is "sisal." Look it up. See ya.

Locke Mills

by Lorraine Larson

After a five-week stay with Andy and me, Jake is back home with his family. Gerry and Joe Shimamura. They have just returned from a five-week trip with their son, Jody, his significant other, Julia, and his son, David. It was planned to be a three-week jaunt, which kept stretching. They visited a lot of great places on their way to California and back. When we returned Jake on Thursday, they kindly showed us what they had taped of their trip. We thought it was very nice of them, considering we arrived on their doorstep early in the morning and woke them up. I was reading a definition of tact once that said tact was what people displayed when they made you feel welcome in their home when they were secretly wishing you were in yours. I sort of figured that it was more often a definition of friends, although I've got to admit that I always am pleased to have my friends visit as long as they are willing to take me as they find me.

Anyhow, one of the really spectacular places was the white sands. They even brought a little back and it was really very fine, not coarse as we think of sand. When they were in Utah on their way out, they visited with Jon Owen, who showed them some of the preparations that are being made for the Olympic games in Salt Lake City.

I'm sure Jake is happy to be home, but our animals are acting rather lost. Buddy has gone around the house crying and even Jack doesn't quite know what to do with himself, now his "enemy" is not here. Even Princess, who was with us when we took him home, checked out the back seat where Jake always rode and then checked out a few spots at home. Hopefully, she will be glad to get her sleeping spot at the foot of the bed back. She had to sleep more in the middle, and she seems to get too warm there.

Jake is certainly a lovely dog who reminds me too much of Casey, and I kept finding myself calling him that. Of course, he didn't know who I was talking to and ignored me, otherwise he minds very well. He does like to chase cars, Gerry told me, so he never got the opportunity. We kept him on a short leash. Princess likes to chase her cats and she's back to doing that. They really don't mind. It is all part of the game.

looks so gross. There were about 45 people there and mostly they were descendants of Fritz and his two sons and some of their spouses. We tease him about what he started when he had those two sons. I think the one who traveled the farthest was Richard Peterson, who lives in California. He is a twin to Robert, but they do not look alike now. They are older. They did all their growing-up years and they are supposed to be identical, but one is much thinner than the other and it changes their appearances. Anyhow, we all had a good time eating lobster and clams, except for Norma who is allergic to seafood and all the other goodies. A big birthday cake rounded out the festivities.

South Woodstock

by Andrea Wing
Richard Wing (along with others) received an invitation to be recognized at the 2001

Governor's Public Career Service Awards, which were held Sept. 12 at the Augusta Civic Center. Richard works for MDOT in Bethel and is still employed there at this time. Congratulations to all.

Todd Poland had the misfortune of an accident that severed part of his finger while working on a saw at his work. Todd had to go to the hospital and had part of the finger removed later in the day. We wish him a speedy recovery.

Marta Clements, Rosalie Poland, Clárbel Poland and I attended a small part of the Woodstock selectmen's meeting Sept. 4. The use of the Up and Go Community Center (Union Church, South Woodstock) was discussed. Also mentioned prior to the meeting was an area of road on Churchill Hill that is owned by the Town of Woodstock. It is very rough and has many potholes, and is in need of repair.

Sympathy goes out to the family and friends of Lloyd Davis who passed away recently. He will be missed.

My hummingbirds have left for warmer climates. It's as if they know when Labor Day arrives and pack up and leave.

Happy birthday to those celebrating in September. They are: Ricky Mack, Walter Appleby III, Amy Merrill, Dotte Critser, Patricia Dunn, Randi Mack, Maude Alice Hadley, Samantha Poland, Troy Ryerson, Joshua Appleby, Linda Smith, Darlene Hadley, Linnie Roberts, Goldie Mason, Lloyd Poland, Alan Hadley, Leon Verrill, Cathy Mason, Ernie Yap, Florence Watson and Hazel Cole. Special birthday wishes to my son, Rick Wing, and grandson, Doug Wing. Happy anniversary to Erlon and Maude Alice Hadley, Jim and Goldie Mason, Calvin and Cathy Mason.

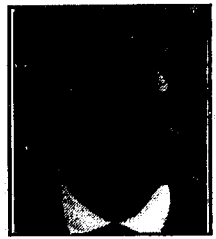

Larry Billings, curator of the Woodstock Historical Society, reports that 10 people visited the museum on Labor Day weekend when Mary Billings and Olive Risko were there. The society had a successful summer and thanks those who came to the museum. Don't forget our meetings are the second Saturday of the month at 7 p.m., even when the museum is closed for the fall and winter.

The Historical Society regrets the passing of Lloyd Davis.

Quote of the Week: "I've learned that when someone gives you something, never say, 'You shouldn't have.'"

West Paris

by Miriam Inman
Walter and Kim Inman spent last weekend visiting Todd and Julie Bouchard and family in Rouses Point, N.Y.

Sandy, Vicky, Brant and Caroline Sanborn spent the day Monday here at camp. It was a gorgeous day.

Joyce Lamb and Myrtle Cadenelli camped at Cathedral Pines in Eustis during the Labor Day Weekend.

Vince and Beverly Stevens also spent the weekend at Cathedral Pines.

Beverly Stevens, Peg Perham, Cynthia Lamb and I met on Thursday afternoon to do our craftwork.

The Historical Society will have a potluck supper and meeting on Sept. 17. More plans will be made for the Harvest Supper we will have on Friday, Sept. 21, with music after by the Parisians.

Saturday, Sept. 1, dawned windy, cooler and a bit rainy, then cleared but remained a bit windy.

Attended the Grand Re-opening of Silver Creations at 42 Main Street, Bryant Pond. This is owned and operated by Sharon Felt Silver, daughter of Richard G. Felt and the late Barbara C. Felt of Bryant Pond. Her daughter, Jennifer Felt, assists her. Four short years ago, Sharon opened her first Silver Creations shop on the corner of Upper Main Street in Bryant Pond. Thanks to all you loyal customers the business grew and grew — like Topsy — until larger quarters were needed. Therefore the move to 41 Main Street where there are four display rooms, a workshop and kitchen. Congratulations and good luck, Sharon and family. A good crowd attended during the day on Saturday.

Sunday night, Sept. 2, saw a good-sized group out at the West Paris Baptist Church for "Singspiration" followed by good refreshments downstairs in the dining room. Next month this will be held at the North Paris Federated Church on the first Sunday of October at 7 p.m.

The officers of West Paris Grange 298 and Franklin Grange 124 were installed at Franklin Grange Hall on Main Street, Bryant Pond, on Monday, Sept. 3 by the very able installation team of Wayne Sherman, chaplain of the Maine State Grange. The members of this team were as follows: installing officer, Wayne Sherman, master; Marilyn Heath, chaplain; Linda Sherman and Hillary Dougherty, marshalls; Vernon Dunn, flutist and soloist; Dot Canwell, pianist; Shirley and Bill Hatch, regalia and emblem bearers.

Condolences go out to the family of Lloyd Davis of Bryant Pond. Mr. Davis was a 70-year member of Franklin Grange in Bryant Pond. West Paris Senior Citizens met Tuesday at the home of Pat and Fred Breaume on Route 26 for a bountiful, delicious dinner followed by a brief business meeting and program. The next meeting will be held on Oct. 9 at 12 noon at the home of Elsie H. on Route 26, West Paris.

Andrea Fillebrown is our new school bus driver from Stoneham. Ed Spooner is also driving school bus again this year for the Oxford Hills area.

The Stoneham Church meeting will be held at 7 p.m. at the Stoneham Church on Sept. 19 and the Oxford County United Parish meeting will be 7 p.m. at the Stoneham Church on Sept. 26.

I must go and check the beans for the church public supper. I think they are done. The next public supper will be the Harvest Supper in October.

East Stoneham

by Eleanor Nelson
Hi readers. Troop 155 went to Baxter State Park recently. Nine boys and five adults went. One group hiked to Hamlin Peak on Mt. Katahdin, and one group hiked the Daisy Pond/Lost Pond Loop. Scoutmaster Vic Rollins read stories, written by longtime guide Roy Dudley, around the campfire each night and was really enjoyed by all.

Dale and Kitty Nelson went to North Conway recently to a lecture, slide show and book signing of famous cartographer, author and mountaineer and Boston Science Museum founder, Bradford Washburn, and his wife, Barbara, who was the first woman to climb Mt. McKinley in Alaska. The Nelsons were accompanied by Erna Rogers of Weston, Mass., who with her late husband were friends of the Washburns.

Dale and Kitty Nelson had their log home exterior cleaned, treated and re-stained recently. Larry Butters of Stowe does that kind of work and he did a good job.

Wednesday, Sept. 5, the North Waterford Senior Citizens met at the North Waterford Church Vestry for a meeting and potluck dinner. There were about 20 members present. Jeannie Horton won the 50-50 raffle. The Rev. George Froberg told us interesting stories after lunch, which everyone enjoyed. Dessert was cake and ice cream. It was a good day all round.

Bethany and Peter Roberts and Heather, Amanda and Allyssa are staying with her parents, Kathy and Craig Adams, for a while.

Kara Jones is attending Central Maine Technical College in Auburn, taking architectural engineering. She is working for John Bliss one day a week now.

Keegan Jones goes to Children's Discovery Center in Fryeburg now and he likes it very much.

Jennifer Kosiavelon is attending St. Joseph's College in Windham. She is pursuing a nursing career.

Andrea Fillebrown is our new school bus driver from Stoneham. Ed Spooner is also driving school bus again this year for the Oxford Hills area.

The Stoneham Church meeting will be held at 7 p.m. at the Stoneham Church on Sept. 19 and the Oxford County United Parish meeting will be 7 p.m. at the Stoneham Church on Sept. 26.

I must go and check the beans for the church public supper. I think they are done. The next public supper will be the Harvest Supper in October.

From the Bethel Rotary Club

As the kids headed back to the classrooms, Rotary welcomed Dan Kunkle, the new headmaster at Gould Academy. Dan and his family came to Bethel most recently from California. However, Dan is not new to our great state, as he has frequented Maine over the last 30 years, oftentimes visiting to canoe or hike. Dan took a moment to pay tribute to the late Ed Vachon. Gould and the community will miss this renowned man.

In looking at Gould, Dan recognized some strengths of Gould including the school's flourish under the leadership of former headmaster and Bethel Rotarian Bill Clough, its academic programs, and the Bethel community. What Dan hopes to bring to Gould from California is the celebration of the world around us — to embrace it, as in the first California rainstorm of the season — and to stretch oneself. Welcome, Dan, and we look forward to your leadership of Gould.

Congratulations to member Donna Cook as our most recent Paul Harris Fellow recognition recipient. Rotarians who contribute or in whose name is contributed a gift of a certain level or more to The Rotary Foundation Annual Programs Fund may become a Paul Harris Fellow. Donna works in telecommunications and was voted Rotarian of the Year for Bethel Rotary this year. Thank you Donna for all you do.

So, who is Paul Harris? Paul Harris began the first Rotary Club in Chicago in 1905. Upon his death in 1947, an outpouring of Rotarian donations made in his honor launched the first programs of The Rotary Foundation. Today, more than $80 million annually support three program avenues of the foundation: PolioPlus — a program that supports global efforts to eradicate polio; humanitarian programs — grants to fund club and district service projects; and educational programs — to fund student, faculty, and young professionals to serve abroad.

A grand time was had by all at the Youth Appreciation Day as a thank you to the youths who have helped the Bethel Club with its many service programs and projects throughout the year. The weather was terrific and a special thank you to Bill Dunton and his staff at the BIG Adventure Center for helping to make this day possible.

Calendar items: Sept. 15 — Hosting high school area International students at the Riverview; Sept. 22 — Bethel Area's Harvestfest.

Inside Rotary — Wishing you a speedy recovery Bill; Welcome home Mike; How did you like that water slide, Steve? How about that grilling, Bob?

Upcoming programs include Club Assembly, and Bob Chagrasulis, Dominican Republic Water Project.

Rotary International is an international service organization of 1.2 million business and professional men and women who, as volunteers, address needs of their home and international communities. The Bethel Rotary Club meets Tuesdays at 7:30 a.m. at The Bethel Inn and Country Club.

From the Bethel Historical Society's Regional History Center

The 36th annual meeting of the Bethel Historical Society was held at the Dr. Moses Mason House on Sept. 6 with nearly seventy members and guests present. A chicken barbecue preceded the meeting and was held on the Dr. Mason House lawn with President Al Barth manning the grills. He thanked Jim Lowe for preparing the chicken for the barbecue and announced to applause that he was donating a grill to the society for future annual meetings. At the end of the barbecue, a large decorated carrot cake made by Lois Kilroy was unveiled, which paid tribute to Persis Post, who will soon be moving to Vermont. It was served to all present, and President Barth presented Mrs. Post with a special Bethel Historical Society pen made from wood from the O'Neil Robinson House. He noted her long record of service to the society since 1980 and expressed the sentiment that she would be sorely missed.

The group then adjourned to the exhibit hall of the Dr. Mason House for the annual meeting and lecture. The minutes of the last annual meeting were dispensed with since they were published last September in The Citizen. The annual audit will be available soon and will be published in The Courier. President Barth read the names of all members who had died since the last annual meeting and asked for a moment of silence in their memory: Sharon Bennett, Phyllis Dock, Helen Varner Judkins, Roger E. Robertson, Ruth Scribner, Irene Russell, Ethel Chapman, John Baylerlein, John T. Grover, Marjorie Berry Menzies, Daphne Chapman, Leslie Noyes, Alfred Howard, Dr. Richard Bush, Archie Young, Dr. Edward Martin, Avis Rand, Royden Keddy, Judith Freeman Costa, Elizabeth Baker, Edmund Vachon and Geraldine Howe.

The president reviewed some highlights of the past year: a membership gain of 52 individuals and corporate members, over 80 donations of artifacts and other historical materials, several successful special events, completion of the MAP III (Museum Assessment Program III) dealing with audience development with two outside surveyors visiting and writing a report, completion of the re-wiring of the Robinson House and the beginning of extensive repairs to the exterior, the most successful annual fund campaign ever, the near completion of a business plan, and a reorganization of the capital campaign under a new chair, Bill Andrews for the second phase.

Seven Honorary Membership certificates, the society's highest membership honor, were presented by the president. To be eligible, one must be at least 75 years of age and have compiled an outstanding record of service to the society. Those honored this year were: Marna McGinnis, Avery Angevine, Margaret Davis, Jane and Dick Hosterman, Mildred Jackson, and Sylvia Wight.

Society Director Stan Howe presented the 15th annual Marjorie MacArthur Noll Volunteer Service Award to Mary C. Keniston. The award is given annually to an outstanding volunteer who best exemplifies the volunteer spirit of Mrs. Noll. Mrs. Keniston was honored for her long record extending back more than 20 years. She served as secretary and clerk of the trustees, a trustee, and as treasurer. She has also long served as a member of the Special Projects and Investment committees. One of her outstanding projects was researching the history of the Mill Hill and later Grover Hill sections of Bethel and presenting the results of her research to the society and publishing it in The Courier.

Under committee reports, the Nominating Committee (Arlene Lowell, chair, Lois Kilroy and Betty Robertson) reported the following slate for consideration: president, Alvin Barth; vice president, Arlan Jodrey; secretary and clerk of the trustees, Allen Cressy; treasurer, Susan Herlihy; trustees for three years, William Andrews and Grace McKivergan. The report was accepted without dissent. President Barth asked for a rising vote of thanks for the two retiring trustees, Lois Kilroy and Priscella Walker.

The meeting was adjourned. Society Director Howe introduced the speaker for the evening by relating the story that he was suggested by Howe's best college friend, John Jaques, just prior to his death in December 2000. The speaker, Richard Joslin of Cambridge, Mass., dedicated his lecture to the memory of Mr. Jaques, also his friend as well. Joslin, a retired architect and Smith College faculty member, with undergraduate and graduate degrees from Harvard University, spoke on the life and work of his great-grandfather, Sylvester Marsh, builder and promoter of the world famous cog railroad on Mt. Washington. Through a series of remarkable slides, Joslin presented a very comprehensive examination of Marsh and his project that has become one of the great icons of the White Mountains. Joslin has written the story of Marsh and the Cog. Copies of his publication were available after the meeting for autographing. Punch and carrot cake were served during the social hour following the lecture.

The fourth annual Apple and Pumpkin Festival will be held on Sept. 22, from 1 to 4 p.m. at the society's Regional History headquarters. On Sept. 15, the annual Maine Heritage Day will be held with all buildings and exhibits open from 1 to 4 p.m.

From the

Telstar Alumni Association

The Telstar Alumni Association held its monthly meeting on Sunday, Sept. 9, at the Red Top Restaurant in Locke Mills. An item on the agenda was the Alumni Halloween/Costume Dance on the 27th of October with The Impalas at Locke Mills Legion Hall. Prizes will be awarded to different categories of costumes. Start thinking about your costumes before all the good ones are taken.

We also need to get busy on another newsletter and start thinking about class reunions for next summer — it's not too early to get things in the works. Classes from years: 1972 (30 years), 1977 (25 years), 1982 (20 years), 1987 (15 years), 1992 (10 years) and 1997 (five years). Anyone from these years is welcome to contact us at the school, and we will try to help find classmates and let them know how much money, if any, their class may have. Also, we need class contact people. You could be the right person for the job.

Our next Alumni meeting will be held on Oct. 9 at the school. Please join us.

From the

Bethel Area Chamber of Commerce

Welcome to our newest member: Lian's Restaurant on the Sunday River Road, Will Craffey, owner. They plan to be open for this ski season.

We are seeking scarecrow builders from all over the area to enter the chamber's upcoming contest. Let's get into the spirit of the season and dress up our homes and businesses for the harvest season. Call the chamber for details. Many thanks to Arthur and Lisa Park, new owners of Littlefield Beaches Campground, for offering to decorate the Intervale Gateway "Welcome to Bethel" sign. We are seeking interested parties to decorate the other four gateways, too.

The fourth annual Bethel Harvest Fest is shaping up to be a great three-day celebration of our diverse and wonderful regional economy. Friday, Sept. 21, is a full day of forest products mill tours as well as a woodlot tour and a few other day-end activities. Saturday, Sept. 22, is a full day from 9:30 a.m. to 4:30 p.m., including an arts and crafts fair on the common, musical entertainment on the gazebo, children's activities, horse-drawn wagon rides, the Sysco Food Chowdown Fest from 11:30 to 1:30, an Apple and Pumpkin Festival at Bethel's Regional History Center, a Sunday River Ski Resort ticket booth featuring special ski packages and season passes and food for all to enjoy. There will be many recreational activities held in and around the area and lots of shopping, too. Sunday, Sept. 23, will feature a 50-mile recreational bike tour of the Bethel area, led by Dillon Gillies. Anyone interested in participating should report to the Casablanca Cinema parking lot at 9 a.m. and be ready to go by 10 a.m. sharp. The ride should take between three and four hours. For more information on the event, call the chamber office at 824-2282. Many thanks to Sysco Food Services of Northern New England, Sunday River Ski Resort, the Bethel Inn and Country Club, Carrabassett Coffee Company and Pleasant River Farm for their support of the day.

Members are reminded of the upcoming deadline for advertising in the chamber's annual Guidebook.

NEW MEN ON CAMPUS—Opening its doors for the 166th academic year, Gould Academy began classes Monday with 223 students representing 15 states and 7 countries. After a day of orientation activities last week, 85 new students took to the woods of Maine and New Hampshire for three days of backpacking and canoeing with student proctors and faculty leaders. Pictured are freshmen Finian Donovan and Lorenzo Baker, with biology teacher Erik Janicki. Returning field hockey and soccer players participated in preseason sports camps over the weekend and joined the others on Sunday for class registration and school meetings. Athletic practices continue this week with competitions beginning this weekend. New developments on the Gould campus this year include the ongoing construction of the McLaughlin Science Center, slated for completion by the start of the 2002-2003 academic year, and the expansion of the technology curriculum to include courses in robotics, network security, and software development.

School Sports

High School Boys' Varsity Soccer

Telstar 3, Boothbay 2, Sept. 7--Telstar's Casey Fleet scored two goals and Wade Osgood one in a win over Boothbay. Kurt Wight had an assist. Goalie Jeremy Benson had seven saves. The Rebels outshot Boothbay, 27-10.

High School Varsity Field Hockey

Telstar 6, Boothbay 1; Sept. 10--Telstar's Lauren Hart scored two unassisted goals in a win over Boothbay. Mariah Seames scored on a rebound of her own shot. Alanna Borst and Nikki Roberts each scored, with assists from Hart and Katie Wight, respectively. Wight scored on a penalty stroke. Goalie Maegan Gaudreau had three saves, and Heather Zimmerman had a big defensive save. "Katie's penalty stroke three minutes into the game started the scoring drive," said coach Gail Wight. "Five different girls scored, and the team held Boothbay to one defensive corner in the second half. That's teamwork."

Telstar 3, Dirigo 0; Sept. 7--Telstar's Katie Wight scored two goals and Lauren Hart one in a win over Dirigo. Nikki Roberts had an assist on one of Wight's goals. Goalie Maegan Gaudreau had three saves, and Krystle Gould had an important save on a rebound shot. The Rebels had 42 shots on goal. "A great show of positive teamwork for 60 minutes made for a great game," said coach Gail Wight.

Telstar 2, Mountain Valley 1; Sept. 5--Telstar's Mariah Seames had a goal and an assist in a win over Mt. Valley. Nikki Roberts scored the other Rebel goal. "Mariah's goal with 1:07 left in the first half to put the team up by one was a great morale-booster," said coach Gail Wight. "It was not the best game we've played, but the team held it together for the win."

HITTING THE TRAIL
Telstar's cross-country teams competed against four other schools last week in a meet held in Bethel. Above, the girls leave the start. Rebel runners are at the left of the pack, and include Shonna Young, Sarah Gamble, Brianna Bailey (a sixth-grader) and Anna Willard. At left, boys' runner Dave Barton reaches the crest of a hill, followed by Willard.

LOON LAKE • 1,050 sq. ft.

The simple, but novel, hexagon shape distinguishes the LOON LAKE. Although the hexagon involves two more corners than the common rectangle, each corner is only slightly more complicated than a standard square corner, and the entire home is easy constructed. The finished hexagon home is stronger than a typical rectangular home, and it requires less energy for heating and air conditioning. Most of the corners are not square, and decorating can be exciting and fun. The unconventional exterior with a cupola to identify it will draw interest from everyone. Two common owner variations are elevating the home on piers and installing a six-foot deck around the entire perimeter.

In Memory

Resolutions of Respect

Whereas it has pleased our Heavenly Father to call our beloved Sister, Gerry Howe, from our midst and in view of the loss in our Grange and Community;

Therefore be it resolved that it is a just and fitting tribute to the memory of the departed to say that in regretting her passing, we mourn for one who served faithfully, cheerfully and diligently for many years, her grange and her community and will be sorely missed by all;

Therefore be it further resolved that we spread a copy of these resolutions in our records, have a copy printed in the Bethel Citizen; and a copy sent to her family, Alder River Grange #145 extends its sympathy to the bereaved family.

Card of Thanks

We have so much gratitude, and so few words to adequately express our appreciation to the many folks who have cared for Mom these past few years. For the most part, we do not even have a good record of names of caregivers because there are so many. So there follows a list of wonderful people and organizations who have our everlasting thanks: the fabulous crew of Bethel Ambulance Service; the services of Stephen's Memorial Hospital, including ER & Surgery on more than one occasion; the greatest family of loving, caring people anyone could ever find (including volunteers) at the Maine Vets Home in South Paris; Drs. Kumaki and Andalkar and their staff; Barb and Brian at Greenleaf Funeral Home; Rodney Hanscom; and the Bethel United Methodist Church. Mom was truly blessed to be the recipient of such excellent care and we are all very grateful. Above all, we give thanks for the support and concern of community, friends, and already-grieving family. Thank God for you all, and God bless you.

Card of Thanks

To all our friends and family who have been so caring and attentive. Your visits, cards, calls, and prayers have given precious comfort and support.

Our families want to thank the Tri Town Rescue for being so quick and helpful. And to the Andrews Funeral Home.
